SEATGEEK AND SPECTRA TICKETING & FAN ENGAGEMENT (formerly Paciolan) ANNOUNCE PARTNERSHIP

Partnership Enables Spectra Clients to List Ticket Inventory on SeatGeek's Ticketing Platform on both Web and Mobile

NEW YORK (August 3, 2015) – SeatGeek, the leading ticket search engine, and Spectra Ticketing & Fan Engagement, a leader in ticketing, fundraising, marketing and analytics solutions, today announced a comprehensive new partnership that will enable clients of Spectra Ticketing & Fan Engagement to list their tickets through SeatGeek's web and mobile ticketing platforms. Through this partnership, Spectra Ticketing & Fan Engagement's broad range of clients will provide additional primary ticket inventory for fans of major college athletics programs, arenas, professional sports teams and performing arts venues on the SeatGeek platform.

With over 8 million monthly unique users, SeatGeek has quickly grown into the leading ticket search platform for consumers in North America, with powerful consumer tools that surface the best ticket options from both primary and secondary market sources. As a result of this partnership, SeatGeek will now offer consumers a comprehensive breadth of ticketing options for events organized by Spectra Ticketing & Fan Engagement's hundreds of clients.

"We're thrilled to launch this new partnership with Spectra Ticketing & Fan Engagement," said Nihar Singhal, SeatGeek EVP of Business Development. "Spectra has done an amazing job in serving the ticketing needs of marquee clients across the sports and entertainment industry. Through our partnership, those clients can now take advantage of the platform and audience we've built at SeatGeek to drive primary ticket sales and to reach millions of new fans."

A division of Spectra by Comcast Spectacor, Spectra Ticketing & Fan Engagement is a leader in ticketing for college athletics, professional sports, arenas and performing arts. The company provides primary ticketing services for major clients such as The University of Texas, the Philadelphia Flyers and the Wells Fargo Center, with Spectra Ticketing & Fan Engagement clients combining to sell over 120 million tickets per year. As more than 60% of SeatGeek's 8 million monthly users shop for tickets via a mobile device, this new partnership will make it even easier for fans to purchase tickets to see their favorite teams, artists and events while they are on the go.

"We are extremely excited to announce our partnership with SeatGeek to help connect fans with tickets to our client's venues," said Dave Butler, President and CEO, Spectra Ticketing & Fan Engagement.

"SeatGeek's rich technology and broad customer reach will assist with event discovery and help our client organizations to sell more tickets."
