ATLANTIC CITY WILL HOST NYE CONCERT FOR DICK CLARK SHOW

Atlantic City has nailed down an arrangement for a New Year's Eve concert in Boardwalk Hall to be broadcast on Dick Clark's Rockin' Eve 2017, part of a deal with Miss America and also a makeup from two canceled beach concerts this summer.

Robert Mulcahy, the chairman of the board of the New Jersey Casino Reinvestment Development Authority said the state agency had money left over because of two canceled beach concerts this summer. The concerts were canceled in the run-up to Hermine.

Dick Clark Productions, which put on Miss America with a multi-million subsidy from the CRDA, had agreed to promote Atlantic City on its New Year's Eve broadcast. But this new arrangement calls for a concert inside Boardwalk Hall with a major artist, Mulcahy said.

Mulcahy would not divulge the name of the artist, pending finalization of the contract.
